

ABSTRACT

A TV set equipped with a charge unit includes a charger that enables users to share an external electric power supply through an electrical processing unit located in a TV set that is 5 installed in a fixed location in a house to charge or supply electric power. Users do not have to purchase additional charging docks and can charge or provide electric power to related devices (such as remote controllers).